Attorney General John Ashcroft
US Department of Justice
950 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20530-0001

Dear Attorney General Ashcroft:

I appreciate the Justice Department finally coming to a settlement over the Microsoft issue. The three year long dispute has brought up many issues regarding antitrust laws and the tech industry. The settlement that was reached represents a good compromise. I believe that it should be acceptable to everyone involved.

Now that the Windows' operating system will be made available to producers at a uniform price, computer makers will not have to gain favor with Microsoft in order to receive discounted prices. This evens the playing field among computer makers. Further the review committee that is to be created will guarantee that everyone plays fair too.

The settlement comes at a good time. It represents both sides of the issue. The government needs to move on to more important matters. Thanks for listening.

Sincerely yours,

Harold Hall
